Democratic Keynote Sounded by Temporary Chairman Glynn.

DEFENDS NEUTRALITY POLICY

Advocates Defense Preparedness and Flouts Militarism Bugaboo-Discuases Domestic Policies and Eulogizes Mr. Wilson.

St. Louis, Mo., June 14.-Following is a condensed version of the address delivered at the opening of the Democratic national convention today by Temporary Chairman Martin H. Glynn, former governor of New York. Gentlemen of the Convention: The Democratic party, in this convention assembled, meets to perform a duty, not to itself but to the nation.

We have entered this hall as Democrats; we shall deliberate and act here as Americans.

If in this great crisis that now confronts the nation, the American people falter, their apostasy will be visited upon the descendants of their children's children. Disregarding the divisions that make one man a Tory and another a Whig, one man a Republican and another a Democrat, Americans will cast aside the tinsel of party emblems.

From the great, pulsing heart of the nation will come a patriot command to crush partisanship and rebuke whatever is mean or blind.

And when, a century from now, America's children come to read our history, we pray God that the history we are about to make may prove an inspiration to their loyalty.

In the attainment of this hope, the utterance of this prayer we who gather here today have a responsibility that sobers our emotions as it strengthens our resolutions.

For two years the world has been afire. That fire still burns, but thus far the United States has held the flame at bay.

Must Support Principles. What the people of the United States must determine through their suffrage is whether the principles that have been asserted as our national pollcy shall be indorsed or withdrawn.

This is the paramount issue. For 200 years neutrality was a theory; America made it a fact. To win this priceless right of neutrality this nation had to undergo a long and painful struggle.

Where is the American hardy enough to challenge a policy so firmly fixed in the nation's traditions?

The president of the United States stands today where stood the men who made America and who saved America and made American neutrality a national creed

If Washington was right, if Jefferson was right, if Hamilton was right, if Lincoln was right, then the president of the United States is right today; if the Republican leaders are right then Lincoln was wrong and Jefferson was wrong and Hamilton was wrong and Washington was

In all the history of the world there is no other national policy that has justified itself so completely and entirely as the American policy of neutrality and isolation from the quarrels of European powers.

Neutral Rights Asserted.

No American who knows the facts can honestly oppose or criticise the policy of neutrality which the present Democratic administration has pur-

America's doctrine of neutrality never meant that this nation must rush headlong into war at the first invasion of its neutral rights. This does not mean that America will not resort to war when all other means of protecting its neutral rights have failed, but it does mean that America will exhaust every peaceful means of protecting those rights before it takes the step from which there is no ap-

The issue, raised by our opponents, of the vigor with which our neutrality has been enforced is a comparative issue which can be decided only by comparative results.

When Grant was president, during the war between Spain and the Span-18h West Indies, a Spanish gunboat seized the vessel Virginius flying the American flag and a Spanish commandant in cold blood shot the captain of the Virginius, 36 of the crew and 16 of the passengers.

But we didn't go to war. Grant settled our troubles by negotiation. When Benjamin Harrison was president the people of Chili conceived a violent dislike to the United States. One junior officer from the United States warship Baltimore was killed outright in the streets of Valparaiso and 16 of our sailors wound-

But we didn't go to war. Harrison settled our troubles by negotiation. More Historical Facts.

When Lincoln was president this country's rights were violated on every side. England, Russia, France and Spain were guilty of flagrant violations.

But we didn't go to war. Lincoln settled our troubles by negotiation. When Pierce was president the British minister in this country and three of his consuls violated our neutrality during the Crimean war. We gave these representatives of Great | tain and be prepared to assert and | dent to be.

But we didn't go to war. Pierce settled our troubles by negotiation. When Van Buren was president a detachment of Canadian militia, during the internal troubles in Canada, boarded the U.S. ship Carolina in the American waters of Niagara river, killed an American member of the crew, fired the ship and sent her adrift over Niagara Falls.

When Jefferson was president England seized hundreds of our ships and Napoleon hundreds more.

But we didn't go to war. Jefferson settled our troubles by negotiation. When Adams was president France preyed upon our commerce until she had piled up in our state department charges of over 2,300 violations of neutrality's law. But we didn't go to war. Adams

But we didn't go to war. Washington settled our troubles by nego-

In his policy of peaceful negotiations today the president of the United States follows the example set him by the greatest presidents the Democratic party and the greatest presidents the Republican party ever gave this nation.

Policy of Negotiation. "To maintain our national honor by peace if we can, by war if we must," is the motto of the president of the United States.

But before submitting to the chance and misery of war, true statesman that he is, he proposes to put the reason and justice of negotiation to the test.

But, say our critics, this policy satisfies no one.

They mean it does not satisfy those who would map out a new and untried course for this nation to pursue,

Temporary Chairman Glynn.

but they forget it does satisfy those who believe the United States should live up to the principles it has professed for a century and more.

National Honor. In desperation for a slogan our opponents try to create an issue out of national honor.

Now national honor is not the whim of an individual mind. National honor is the composite sentiment, the composite reason of a whole people feeling the emotions of | times. nature and following the dictates of

And it is for this reason that "the power" to declare war is conferred by the Constitution of the United States, not on the individual will of president, but on the composite reason, the representative decision of "the congress of the United States."

Some Preparedness Ideas. The genius of this country is for peace. There is no danger of milichoice, it has always been a fate. Like the old Mohawk chief who loved peace, we would like to throw the tomahawk of war so high in the sky that no man's hand could ever pull it down. But when some other tribe among the races of men sends us a bundle of arrows wrapped in the skin of a rattlesnake, we want to be in a position to send that rattlesnake's skin back stuffed with powder and with ball.

We deprecate the compulsion but man on the beat, the safe in the bank and the watchdog on the farm.

The war across the seas has brought home to us the fear that so long as men are men and nations nations, wars will continue.

For these reasons this administration has done more for our army and our navy than any administration in our history.

seeks preparedness, but it is preparedness for defense, not preparedness for aggression.

Our National Soul. These, then, are the principles that have been asserted and followed by the president of the United States during the past two years-that the United States shall not embroil itself in European strife, that the United States shall endeavor to maintain friendly and cordial relations with every other nation and that the United States shall firmly assert and main- Woodrow Wilson, president and presimaintain its neutral rights against every belligerent.

This convention must make it plain that all divisions among the American people stop at the ocean's edge.

Over and above every other reason that the nation may have for upholding its president, is the necessity of proving to the world that we are a united people.

So long as the other nations of the earth realize that the millions under America's flag think as one, believe as one and act as one in the face of foreign war, we shall be free from foreign intrigue, and all that it entails.

High above every other issue that this convention offers to the American people we must therefore write a vindication of American loyalty.

Our Domestic Policies. Four years ago the people of this country entrusted their government to a man and to a party who promised that they would liberate the nation from the chains of industrial tyranny, who pledged themselves to break down the barriers behind which special privilege sat entrenched; who engaged themselves to emancipate business, to throw wide the gate of lawful enterprise, to restore to the men and women of America the paths of progress which had been choked and blocked by long years of invisible government.

That promise has been kept; that pledge has been redeemed. We must content ourselves here with a brief consideration of the great landmarks which chart the change from government for the fortunate few to an evenhanded government in the interest of all.

The first of these is the federal reserve act which freed the business man and the farmer from the financial domination of the money changers and lifted the menace of panic from our industrial life.

In the same spirit and with the same motive that inspired the federal reserve act this administration has devoted itself to the stimulation of American industry, agriculture and trade through all the agencies of government.

It has freed the farmer from the chains of a financial system which was devised for business and not for farming. I cannot close this review of what the present administration has accomplished without adverting to its courageous and statesmanlike solution of the nation's tariff problem.

Of all the tariffs we ever enacted this is the fairest and the best.

By the Underwood law this administration has taken the tariff out of politics; by the new tariff commission it proposes to take politics out of the tariff.

Under the present administration the United States has enjoyed a wonderful era of good business and good the energy of labor hammers into existence out of the material which capital places in its hand. No case of attack on the persons of American residents in Mexico has been reported although there have been one or two attacks on vacant consulates and other American property.

Part of the increasing apprehension here is due to the renewed raids in the Laredo region. Several reports dealing with the situation there have been received. Officials declined to reveal details; but seemed inclined to believe a serious purpose was behind the bandit raid on the Coleman ranch. Three raiders were killed and three captured, one report said, adding that they attempted to burn a railroad bridge near Laredo but falled.

Richard I. Manning just before his departure for St. Louis. The governor, who was just back from Washington, would not say why he promulgated the get-ready orders further than he wanted the companies warned of what might happen. He said he was issuing the orders because there might be a call for the troops any day. In unofficial circles the belief was expressed that the orders for South Carolina militia to go to the Mexican border will be issued in Washington immediately after the St. Louis convention? The liveliest interest was taken in the governor's orders for the militia to get ready for mobilization in all military circles.

Adjt. Gen. W. W. Moore was in conference with Governor Manning just prior to the latter's departure on the Carolina Special for the Democratic convention.

The South Carolina militia is composed of two regiments of infantry, four companies of naval militia, five companies of coast artillery, and one troop of cavalry, in all a little over "His Own Lawyer." Over and over again, the wisdom of the adage, "A man who is his own lawyer has a fool for a client," and the understanding that inspired the injunction, "Physician, heal thyself," are established in the courts. Every lawyer is familiar with many instances in which the wills of distinguished jurists have been set aside because they were improperly drawn, and it is a matter of pretty common knowledge that few doctors can diagnose their own ailments.

Another exemplification now appears in the conflict about the will of the late Dr. Austin Flint. He was, perhaps, more frequently employed as an expert witness as to testamentary capacity than any other alienist in the country. Questions of mental fitness, of intent, of motive and of the other attributes of a "sound-disposing mind" were before him constantly. Yet he drew his own will so ambiguously, so obscurely, that his executors have been compelled to invoke the aid of the court to determine what the learned testator meant.-Richmond Times-Dispatch.
